

DC Health Center Controversy Rages

By FRANK LAPIERRE

A meeting between members of the Guadalupe Health Clinic and a newly-formed ad hoc committee, critical of the Daly City clinic's operation, met Thursday night to discuss charges raised by the citizens' committee concerning racial balance and operation of the facility.

The meeting, held at the War Memorial Building, started on an optimistic note, and ended two hours later with none of the obstacles separating the two sides removed.

Dr. Rudy Trenton attempted to keep the meeting, attended by some 70 persons, on an even keel, but within an hour some speakers began deviating from the agenda to a point where allegations became personal condemnations.

EDWARD C. RIVERA
'meeting can be vital'

It had the appearance of an oldtime "Town Meeting" at the start where persons with problems to be solved and questions to be answered could meet and talk on neutral territory.

For several months, the ad hoc membership has charged that the Guadalupe Clinic has a racial imbalance among its top echelon personnel.

Some even questioned the presence of Pat Wright, former staff member at Guadalupe, remaining on the board of 17 directors, inasmuch as she resides in Alameda County — far out of the area served by the clinic.

When the firing of long-time members of the clinic — some who gave their time to get the clinic started five years ago — began, the ad hoc membership became enraged.

Officials at the clinic justified their actions by pointing out some of the employees being discharged were no longer able to cope with advanced methods employed at the clinic.

Alice Kessler, a Mexican-American member of the clinic's board, began the meeting by expressing confidence that differences could be worked out by both sides.

Mrs. Kessler is also director of the city's Information & Referral Center.

Edward C. Rivera, acting Health Plan Director, said "this meeting can be a vital, productive force" if it is handled properly.

He was referring to clinic officials holding informal talks with citizens to air issues.

Also attending the meeting, as an observer, was Irene Reed, representing HEW. (Health, Education & Welfare). HEW has sponsored several programs at the Guadalupe Clinic.

A stern critic of what he alleged to be "a racial imbalance in the management structure" was Rev. Hosey Spears.

Rev. Spears said the ad hoc committee and others "want answers."

He said the group was not referring to any racial imbalance in the working staff of the facility.

Appointments Clerk Mitzie Solarzano interrupted Rev. Spears to explain "Our main purpose is to help the people — all types of people."

And she noted there are "all types of personnel working at the clinic."

Rivera admitted the clinic will never "be able to achieve 100 per cent racial balance."

In one of the most emotional speeches of the meeting, Mrs. Madge Bradstreet said she "thought it (the clinic) was for poor people" regardless of race.

Mrs. Bradstreet traced the history of the clinic "to when it was for all the poor people who needed medical treatment."

One step that would get the clinic back on the right track, according to Maury Tolson, is for the directors to hire a permanent director.

He suggested Rivera, because "he relates to the people."

MADGE BRADSTREET
'thought clinic for poor'

Tolson is a member of the ad hoc committee.

Two members of the clinic informed Tolson interviews were now underway to select a clinic director.

Why hadn't these people come to the directors' meetings before the problems mushroomed, Guadalupe director Mack Morgan wanted to know.

"We entrusted (directors) to operate Guadalupe. When we saw failure we decided to move in," Rev. Spears answered.

Another meeting will be held between both sides in the near future.

Meanwhile, the ad hoc committee is expected to press its demands for a city investigation and an HEW investigation of the operation, a spokesman said.

Health Clinic's Growing Pains

By FRANK LAPIERRE

Within the past five years, the Guadalupe Health Clinic has mushroomed from a series of meetings between North County medical authorities and Daly City officials, to a fully-implemented health center with a staff of some 40 persons.

Headaches have increased along with this growth.

There were only a scattering of supporters when the movement to have a "people-to-people" clinic started some seven years ago.

Spokeswoman for the group was Shelly Fernandez.

Mrs. Fernandez appeared to be the rallying point for others bent on having a clinic where the city's poor and elderly could receive free medical advice and treatment.

Mrs. Fernandez once told this reporter a large number of minority persons, the poor and elderly, had no place to go for medical treatment.

Transportation to the imposing Mary's Help Hospital was practically non-existent. And when they did get to the hospital, it was something of a struggle to make themselves understood.

There followed a series of meetings between the Guadalupe group (named after Our Lady of Guadalupe, patron saint of Mexico, who devoted her life to helping the sick) and Mary's Help Hospital authorities.

Some of these meetings were turned into heated debates regarding services provided for the poor, or rather allegations that services for the poor were lacking.

The fight for an "office front clinic" was carried to the "City Council time and again."

There was talk at the outset that the group would be housed in a section of Mary's Help Hospital.

But space was extremely limited and the group turned elsewhere seeking space for the clinic — preferably in "Old Daly City" where the need for such a facility was greatest.

An Analysis

The Guadalupe idea started with a couple of physician's volunteering their services for practically no fee.

They would use medicines donated by drug companies and hospitals.

If a person could not pay he or she would be pressured, it was understood.

Each individual coming to the clinic would be treated equally and would be able to talk to a volunteer worker in their native tongue.

It was an inspiring idea, it could be sold to the council.

Some four years ago the idea was "sold" and the small enthusiastic group moved into a second floor store on Mission Street.

Mrs. Fernandez, and dozens of other persons, walked through the city to convince people the clinic was for them and encouraged them to get medical checkups and advice.

Originally, Guadalupe was envisioned as a sort of "screening room" for patients to be sent to Mary's Help Hospital for further treatment.

This would relieve the hospital, which was cooperating fully with the clinic, of some of its workload in the outpatient department of the hospital.

Of course Mary's Help Hospital continued to accept those who came there for treatment.

Judging from the response (described by one clinic worker as "an avalanche") the clinic was a success.

Persons this reporter discussed the facility with agreed it was performing a much-needed service to the poor, elderly and ethnic people of Daly City.

They were happy with it.

Soon, the group, larger now, went on the march to City Hall — again — this time asking for use of the Old City Hall at 75 Wellington, (present site of the clinic).

The City Hall had been vacated since the Northern Judicial Municipal Court of Judge Charles Becker was moved to South San Francisco.

Again, after several meetings and investigation by the city, which by now had satisfied itself the Guadalupe operation was being used by an ever-increasing number of people, the center was granted use of the structure.

Planner Promises Camelot Tot-Lot

Protestors Go Home Happy

The crowd filed into the Daly City council chambers one evening two weeks ago voicing frustration and anger over the alleged procrastination on the part of the city to complete a promised tot-lot in their neighborhood.

Some children, in the group of about 60 residents, carried placards demanding that the Parks and Recreation Commission complete the playground as quickly as possible.

When the group left about an hour later, there were smiles.

Credit for the turnaround in the parents' attitude was given to city planning assistant Don Ciucci who toiled until the early morning hours on the preceding night to prepare plans, drawings and outlines of how the Camelot tot-lot would look when completed.

Ciucci, using multi-colored visual aids and photos of the equipment to be installed, convinced the irate crowd the tot-lot will not only be functional, but an attractive addition to the neighborhood.

Parks and Recreation Commission chairman Al Kane, who had been pushing the project for several months, informed the council that Ciucci's presentation was "one of the best" he had ever witnessed.

After review of the plans (by the commission) and discussion with area residents, plans for the Camelot tot-lot were approved as presented," Kane said.

Ciucci and city parks, maintenance and recreation Supt. Charles Vincent, said equipment for the playground will come from four different manufacturers.

"Some manufacturers of this equipment think the tot-lot will be a sort of "proving ground" for their merchandise," Vincent told the council last week.

The playground will be built on a one-third of an acre lot.

It will take four months to complete once work starts, Vincent said.

One of the unique features of the playground will be the perimeter fence — a chain passed through thick logs driven into the ground.

"This fence will be attractive and will serve to remind children they should not dash out of the tot-lot into the street," Vincent said.

The chain post idea was presented by Ciucci after many studies, it was learned.

In the center of the tot-lot will be a pagoda-style structure sheltering a sand box.

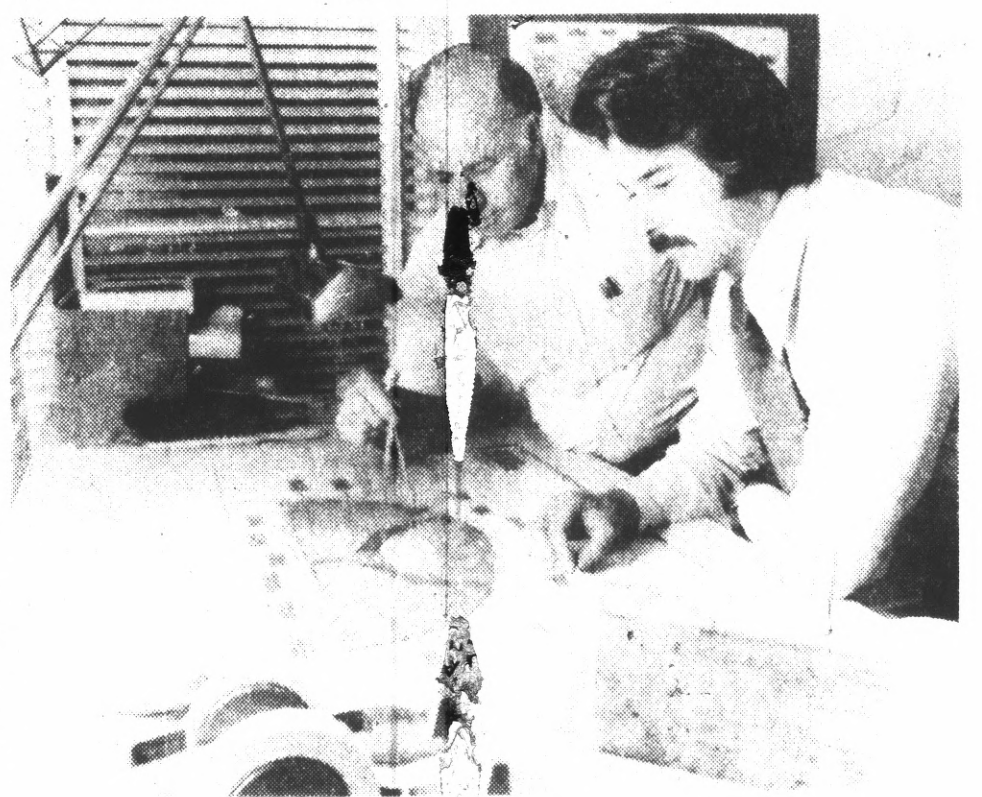

Kane, a carpenter, volunteered to build the pagoda without charge.

He enlisted the aid of Ciucci and Vincent, the council was told.

Last July, some $21,000 was budgeted from federal revenue sharing funds for the project.

The construction costs alone are some $19,500, with another $2,000 needed to complete the work, Vincent said.

Council action is expected to be taken Tuesday night giving the project the go-ahead.

Where's the Daly City Civic Center Elevator?

When the award-winning $2.5 million Daly City Civic Center was dedicated on May 20, 1967 among the first questions asked was, "Where's the elevator?"

From the landscaped parking lot to the public conference rooms and myriad public offices, it is a "good" three floors — a long trek for the elderly, an impossible hike for the handicapped.

One of the first persons to attend a public study session on the Civic Center's third floor conference room was former San Mateo County Supervisor Tom Iallan.

Callan, then in his seventies, did not mince words concerning failure of the structure's designers to include an elevator.

He called the natural stone exterior and marbled interior "a mausoleum."

Over the years, the matter of installing an elevator has had its ups and downs around city hall.

Many persons have, asked when an elevator would be put in.

Latest federal regulations concerning public facilities make installation of "people movers" and facilities for the handicapped, mandatory.

Daly City city hall has no facilities for the handicapped — no parking, no reachable telephones, no restroom facilities.

It is, in fact, impossible for a handicapped person to even attend a City Council meeting in the city hall unless he or she is carried about.

Why hadn't the center's architects — Haines & Tatarian & Associates — designed an elevator into the building?

One city hall official ventured "We ran out of money."

The building, however, is on a lease-purchase agreement administered under the Civic Center Committee, a group of prominent residents.

This "pay as you go" ven-

Sewage System Discussed

Staff members of the Westborough Water District and the City of South San Francisco have started talks on the city acquisition of the district's sewer system.

The district board and the City Council authorized the talks last week. Staff members presented a series of alternative plans for dealing with the district's massive problems.

The talks were prompted when the small district learned some $310,000 would be needed to repair and improve its lift-stations. These stations are used to pump all the sewage from Westborough over the hill to Daly City's North County Sanitation District's treatment plant.

In addition, the district has imposed a steep increase in the sewage service charge.

A Jefferson Elementary School District teacher and a Bank of America employee have been arrested by Daly City police, charged with sexually violating a 12-year-old San Francisco junior high school student.

The girl, accompanied by a six-year-old friend, was allegedly approached by the two men shortly before 2 p.m. Sunday at the corner of Bellevue and Lowell Streets in Daly City, police said.

Following what police describe as a "brief discussion" the two men and two children then went to a home at 58 Robinson, Daly City, where one of the men babysat with the six-year-old child while the other had sexual intercourse with the victim, police said.

Investigating officers Terry Hannebeck and Steve Aurilio reported the younger girl went home later in the Day, but the older child did not return home until almost midnight — after her parents asked for police assistance in locating her.

Police learned the identities of the two men and made the arrests at 3:30 p.m. Monday.

Arrested at their homes and charged with unlawful intercourse crimes against children, child stealing, contributing to the delinquency of a minor (by allegedly providing marijuana to the 12-year-old), and lewd behavior were:

Francisco Ernesto Valdez, 24, Bank of America employee, of 58 Robinson St.; and James Edward Lowe, 26,

Final Arguments in Copter Shooting

Closing arguments were to continue yesterday in the helicopter shooting trial in Redwood City, involving a deputy sheriff and resident of Broadmoor, who was wounded in the incident.

The attorney for the deputy sheriff Friday zeroed in on the owner of a gun store, contending that the store definitely sold ammunition to a minor.

"Would any of us be here had that bullet not been sold to a minor?" asked Joseph W. Cotchett, attorney for deputy Jack Gerhardt, who received leg, scutum and arm and wrist injuries in the shooting Nov. 14, 1972.

Cotchett, seeking $500,000 in damages, made his closing argument to a jury of six men and six women before Supervisor Court Judge Melvin E. Cohn. Attorneys for Eddie's Sport's Shop of Mountain View and for the other defendants were to argue their views of the evidence beginning yesterday.

While trial testimony showed that the store owner, Gerald David, said he couldn't remember the transaction, Cotchett told jurors he is certain the evidence shows that ammunition for a 7.7-millimeter Japanese war rifle, used in the helicopter shooting, was sold to Dana Olsen, the then 17-year-old boy accused of negligently shooting the sheriff's helicopter.

Cotchett, his deep voice often booming, said David himself found records during the trial which showed that a friend of Olsen's, William Rasmussen, then 18, purchased 22-caliber ammunition on the date the store is alleged to have sold the 7.7-caliber ammunition. Olsen testified he purchased the bullets at Eddie's, but that he could not remember if he paid for it or gave the money to Rasmussen because he was underage.

The attorney, besides suing the store, is suing Olsen for allegedly negligently shooting at a bird while knowing a helicopter was above, and Rasmussen, for allegedly aiding Olsen in the purchase of ammunition.

Cotchett told jurors that law prohibits the sale of rifle ammunition to persons under 18 years old.

ture precludes the use of public bonds and, in simple terms, leases the building from a builder with eventual intention to own it.

At the time of construction it would have been a simple matter to include an elevator and such other facilities said one official. The job is now compounded by eight years of "waiting and seeing."

This attitude is now changed.

Included in the recommended expenditures for fiscal 1974-75 (capitol outlay fund No. 21) Daly City has allotted $75,000 for a "Civic Center Elevator."

Where it will go or when it will be installed is not yet known. City Manager David Rowe told the City Council this week.

Further, several glass hothouses behind city hall are expected to be razed and a parking lot made for handicapped individuals.

Studies are likewise expected to be made on other facilities for the handicapped.

laws is to prevent the tragedy we have here," Cotchett said.

In summarizing, he said that if the jury finds that the sale of ammunition did come from the store, and that it was made to Olsen, "Rassieur is not liable for his act in the store."

"If you find the bullet came from that store, the resultant act (the shooting) by Dana Olsen holds that store liable," Cotchett said.

He also stated that he believes that Olsen was not purposely shooting at the helicopter, while also noting that witnesses testified that the war rifle was so powerful, it would disintegrate a bird.

While calling Rassieur and Olsen "good boys," Cotchett said, "There is no question that Dana was negligent, and the store was negligent. You use your own individual thought processes to determine (about) Rassieur."

The attorney also cautioned jurors to disbelieve any possible statements by other attorneys that "reasonable doubt" exists as to whether the ammunition was sold by the store, contending that the defendants failed to produce evidence showing that it came from elsewhere.

Following his reasons as to why he believes the defendants are legally liable, Cotchett detailed Gerhardt's injuries, and said doctors indicated he will not be able to return as a deputy sheriff, primarily because of "severe" injuries to his wrist and arm.

Gerhardt, 41, resides in Broadmoor with his wife and four children. He was the helicopter's observer when the shooting occurred.

Guilty Plea In Slaying Of Mate

In a sudden and dramatic climax to the murder trial of Mrs. Linda Anderson of Pacifica, the attractive mother of two changed her plea this morning to guilty of voluntary manslaughter.

Mrs. Anderson originally pleaded innocent to a charge of slaying her husband, Charles, April 28, as he slept in their home. Defense attorney Richard Halpern said that the guilty plea to the lesser charge was Mrs. Anderson's decision. At least two members of the jury said after being released by Judge Lanam they would have never convicted her of murder.

ture for a minimal monthly rental fee.

Out came the volunteers once again.

Saturdays, Sundays and nights, the volunteers painted, washed and transformed the building into a usable clinic.

There was a sort of contagious enthusiasm transmitted from these workers to city officials.

A few months after its opening, the group was before the City Council for the third time, now asking for part of the federal revenue sharing funds to keep the clinic going.

The Guadalupe Health Center, now no longer called simply a "clinic" because of its comprehensive medical programs, received grants from the city's federal revenue sharing monies totalling $72,500.

Federal funds also have been made available to carry out various programs.

In addition to the "free" services still provided, the center now is pushing a "Guadalupe Health Plan" in which persons agree to pay a set amount.

The community workers, who less than three years ago whistled while they worked, are now voicing concern that the poor, elderly and ethnic people who direly need this clinic will be forgotten in favor of those who are members of the "pre-paid plan."

They also allege the center is now in competition with Mary's Help Hospital and of "regular" insurance carriers.

And they wonder, where will it end?

Last week, Marlene Espinoza, an original member of the "founding group," again approached city hall — this time asking for a full-scale investigation of activities and charging racial abuse in employment.

'Job More Demanding Than I Anticipated'

JESD Superintendent Outlines District Needs

Herbert Hemington has been superintendent of the Jefferson Elementary School District for just two months, but already he has recognized the position as being "more demanding than I anticipated."

Since assuming the job Aug. 15, the superintendent has found that the district needs more attention than he thought.

The district office itself needs reorganization, the board has to develop better policies, and many of the schools need substantial maintenance work, Hemington said.

And most critical of all, he contends, the district is faced with serious financial problems.

Hemington made the comments in an interview with the Post last week.

The success the district has in filling such needs as indicated by the superintendent depends on the ability of the administration to work with the school board.

In recent meetings, some differing views on how things should be done have surfaced between the trustees and Hemington, but the superintendent simply calls them misunderstandings caused by a lack clear board policies.

Hemington said there is no problem with the board and that it just wants to solve the district's problems.

"We have a lot of loose ends and all the procedures are not set," Hemington said. "We don't have any big problem, just a lot of small ones."

"The job is still a tremendous challenge to me."

Hemington admitted, "It takes a period of time to go through developing a good relationship between the superintendent and the board."

Hemington and board members have been at odds over such matters as class sizes, combination classes and a district management team.

When asked about the performance of the new superintendent, Board President Beverly Forrester agreed there were differences on some matters, but that "there is no problem between us now."

Mrs. Forrester said the trustees had an open and honest relationship with Hemington. "We'll accept constructive criticism from him and he'll accept constructive criticism from us."

The board president called him a "dedicated person who is anxious to get together and improve the district."

One area where the superintendent and trustees are working together is on updating and clarifying board policy. A series of workshops are being held to review the existing policies.

Hemington explained that good policies are needed for the district to operate effectively. The board sets policies covering a variety of areas and then the administration implements them.

When the policies are not clear, as both Hemington and Mrs. Forrester agree, it becomes difficult for the administration and the board to know what direction the district is headed.

The board establishes policy in categories dealing with the community, personnel, business matters, by-laws, administration, instructional areas and internal affairs.

Another reason why some confusion might exist now could be due to the "phase of reorganization the district is going through."

The superintendent said the phase includes finding a qualified replacement for Associate Superintendent of Instruction and Personnel Dr. Vinton Stratton, who will retire at the end of the school year; hiring a director of buildings and ground, a position that has been vacant since spring; developing the emergency School Aid Act project and other related programs; and trying to obtain available federal funding.

Filling the building and grounds director position is a priority of Hemington's, because of the need "to have someone provide the leadership in that area."

Hemington said he was concerned with the physical condition of the schools, and expressed the need for some repair work and more frequent painting of the buildings.

But before the district solves its maintenance problems, it has to solve its money problems.

The district, one of the poorest in the county in terms of money available per student, has formed a committee to study the possibility of a tax override election for next March.

Although that would help, Hemington sees the solution to the financial woes coming from whatever state legislation is eventually enacted in response to the Serrano decision. That decision requires a more equitable method of financing the state's public schools.

Hemington agreed that more equity in the amount of money for each district was needed, saying that the present system does not provide equal educational opportunity for the child.

The district could have received some help with SB 1592, the $74 million aid to education bill of Sen. Ralph Dills (D-Gardena), but it was vetoed by Governor Ronald Reagan.

Hemington said he was disappointed, but not surprised at Reagan's action. "I thought he'd veto it all along," the superintendent said.

Although acknowledging the district's problems and concerns, Hemington said he was "impressed with what is happening in the classrooms. We have many fine teachers and there is an overall good feeling in the schools, even though faced with such adverse conditions as large class sizes."

Alcohol Plan Survey Derailed

A proposed survey to determine the effectiveness of the various referral, counseling and treatment programs for alcoholics in San Mateo County was derailed Tuesday by the failure to secure a four-fifths vote of the Board of Supervisors.

County Director of Health and Welfare Dr. George

Pickett was recommending a $72,556 contract with the University of California, Berkeley, to undertake the survey, with all but $7,256 of the funding to be financed by the state's Office of Alcohol Program Management.

Donald Light, coordinator of the San Mateo County Alcoholism Advisory Board, reported that the intent of the survey would be in three phases, one of the general public, another of people who have recently received treatment for alcohol related problems, and the third of representatives of the community and of organizations providing services to people with alcohol related problems.

In his written report to the board, Pickett said that the survey was designed to determine whether a given set of alcoholism programs is reaching all population groups needing such programs and whether they are effective.

Supervisor Robert St. Clair questioned the effectiveness of a survey, also noting that it would be delving into the social activities of county residents.

(Light said that the general public survey would be initiated by telephone, with a follow-up by questionnaires.)

Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald indicated that if the general public survey did turn up people who were in need of help concerning alcohol related problems there was no obligation for them to seek or accept assistance.

"If a person does not want to participate, there's nothing we can do about that," he stated.

Delay Seen In SP Rates

It will take California Public Utilities Commission staffers 10 to 14 months to review Southern Pacific's application for an 111 per cent increase in fares for Peninsula commuters, aides told PUC hearing officer Marcel Gagnon Wednesday.

In response, Southern Pacific said it would file for a 25 or 30 per cent "interim" fare hike within a couple of weeks.

Assemblyman Lou Papan of Daly City asked the PUC to consider the 111 per cent rate hike appeal as a "request for discontinuance of service."

Papan also asked the PUC to re-assign the case hearing from Commissioner John P. Vukasin, who will be sworn in as an Alameda County Superior Court Judge Oct.

22. PUC spokesman Eugene Raleigh said this morning that the request was "moot," since reassignment would naturally follow when Vukasin is no longer on the Commission.

Raleigh said Wednesday's prehearing had "defined certain issues regarding what will be considered, but that no hearing date had been set."

He said the commission staff had estimated a year or more would be required to review the mass of statistical material Southern Pacific has submitted in support of its application for increase in commute fares, plus reviewing the railroad's bookkeeping, and accounting procedures to determine whether fare increases are justified.

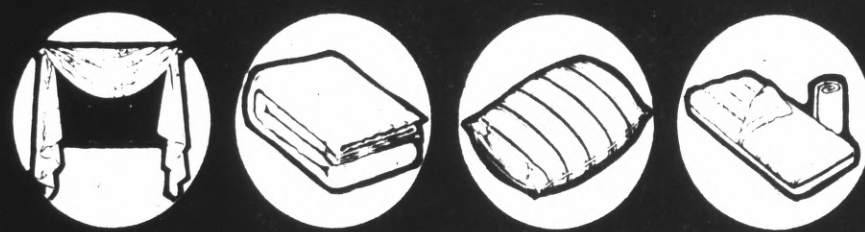

Papan said the application should be "considered as a request for discontinuance of service rather than as simply a fare increase," and that he believes "evidence to support this conclusion" can be provided.

He suggested that Southern Pacific is involved in "a case of attempted deception" by asking for such an enormous fare hike that the PUC will consider taking the commuter service away from the railroad.

This, said Papan, could be because the state's new laws would require an environmental impact statement from the railroad for such a massive change in operations, and that such a change would be difficult to justify.

Southern Pacific said they would be applying for an "interim" rate increase within two weeks. Gagnon said responses would be allowed within an additional 20 days, and that any hearings would be scheduled later.

Serramonte Hit by Race Fight

Daly City police were stationed Thursday at Serramonte High School to prevent a second day of fighting between two ethnic groups at the school.

Wednesday, an estimated 100 youths — mostly males — engaged in a belt-swinging battle at the school.

Although rumors circulated throughout the school that a youth had been stabbed and several others injured to various degrees, police have, as yet, not been able to confirm these stories.

Chief David Hansen said quick action by school authorities, and some student leaders, brought the scuffle to a quick end.

But Thursday more than a dozen police were stationed around the Serramonte facility to head off what they describe as "tutsiders" coming from San Francisco to "stir up trouble."

Hansen said police had intercepted a message from some Serramonte students asking for help from San Francisco schools in joining forces with one group to overpower the "opposition."

Exactly what started the fracas is not known.

One story is that a student pushed another off a railing and the victim got angry.

A meeting between Chief Hansen and school district authorities was scheduled Thursday, it was learned.

Pair Rob Drive-in

Two men held up the A&W Drive-in Restaurant on Lake Merced Avenue on John Daly Boulevard, in Daly City Wednesday night and fled with an undetermined amount of cash, police report.

The men, one armed with a handgun, forced their way into the restaurant shortly after closing time, according to four employees who were cleaning up the building.

Officer Tom Stanghellini reported the pair fled towards San Francisco after taking the cash.

They were described as in their twenties, wearing Afro hairstyles.

One of the men wore a ski mask which he partially removed during the robbery, revealing he was unshaven, witnesses told police.

The other man had a handgun tucked into his waistband, police said.

Men Sought In Robbery

Daly City police have come up with what they call "extenuating circumstances" in the break-in-robbery case involving a 17-year-old Daly City youth at his Alexander Street home Oct. 9.

Detective Terry Hannebeck said today the youth revealed he had made a pre-arranged deal with the four men to buy some $250 in marijuana.

On entering the home, however, the men "took advantage of the situation," according to Hannebeck. They allegedly stole some two pounds of marijuana, two shotguns, two rifles, a wristwatch (later recovered), $50 cash and a pistol, police said.

Shortly after the robbery, San Francisco police arrested David Acosta Labogin, 18, of 167 Hahn St., and Anthony Lynn Tucker, 18, of 68 Esquina St., San Francisco.

Two other men, wanted in connection with the incident, are still at large, police said.

For "lunch periods" everyone is invited to the multi-use room for coffee and to participate in other PTA items.

S. San Francisco Planners Take Stand on Signs

The South San Francisco Planning Commission again expressed their distaste last Tuesday towards allowing any clutter of signs advertising various housing developments throughout the city.

By a 6-1 vote, the commission rejected a request by Home Savings and Loan Co. for a sign at Westborough and Gellert Boulevards that would direct motorists to the Westborough Village townhouses.

The commission actually was considering four sign applications for the development. Two were approved and a third dropped at the mutual agreement of both Home Savings and the commission.

The fourth sign met opposition because of its prominent location, as all but Commissioner Nello Lazzari voted against it.

Commissioner Wesley Slade warned that to approve the sign now would be an invitation to other developers in the area to have additional signs for their projects.

"As sure as we're sitting here," Slade said, "others will be coming to the Planning Commission wanting their signs."

Maintaining that future development could occur in the Westborough area and therefore result in more sign requests, Slade said that the "commission might as well deal with it now."

Changes in Plan Proposed

Tabled Action on Linda Mar Center

Consideration of a permit to allow proposed changes at the Linda Mar Shopping Center resulting from expansion of Ross Department Store was tabled to Nov. 4 by the Pacifica Planning Commission last week.

The request for the delay was made by Robert B. Liles, Inc., on behalf of the shopping center.

Among the revisions that are being planned are the improving of automobile circulation in the rear of the shopping center, refurbishment of existing buildings, repavement of the parking lot and incorporating the bus stop into the overall design of the center.

Other plans include the addition of more landscape to enhance the appearance of the area, the screening of utility areas within the site and the changing of some of the parking stalls.

The commission also considered two variances from residents wanting to construct additions to their property.

By a 5-2 vote, the commissioners permitted a request by James Sherry of 810 Big Bend Drive to build an enclosed patio.

Commissioners Kenneth Grobman and Eleanor

McGuire voted against the variance. Grobman disagreed with the applicant's contention that the variance be granted because other homes also had such additions, though they were in violation of the building code.

And Mrs. McGuire said the commission should change the ordinance if it was going to allow these requests.

But Chairman George Edsell said that as long as the planned addition did not hurt the neighbors, the commission should approve it. Sherry had presented a petition signed by his neighbors supporting the plan.

After long deliberation over another similar request, the commissioners finally got the applicant to agree to alter his construction plans so as to avoid having to apply for the variance.

The matter developed from a request for a variance from Arthur Wheeler of 1058 Rainier Ave. to construct a carport that would house his boat.

Wheeler was in the process of building the structure when the city found him to be in violation of the Pacifica Municipal Code and the Uniform Building Code, thus prompting the variance request.

The commission was reluctant to deny the variance, since it meant Wheeler would have had to tear down the partially completed carport. Instead, it was suggested that the applicant alter his plans so as to conform to the building code and then apply for a building permit.

In another matter, the Planning Commission continued again for 60 days an application by Marguerite Washington to permit a plant and gift shop at 630 Palmetto Ave. The matter had already been continued at the Sept. 16 meeting.

Penney's to Open Store in SSF

The South San Francisco Planning Commission approved an application by J. C. Penney Co. last Tuesday to establish a discount department store in the vacated White Front site at the El Camino Real and Spruce Avenue.

A spokesman for Penney's announced that work at the 14.5 acre parcel will begin immediately and that they hoped to open the store by April.

Besides the White Front, which has been abandoned about two years, a service station, supermarket and key shop also exist on the property J.C. Penney will operate those facilities, too.

Among the tasks necessary before the whole facility is put in operation are landscaping and repairing and replacing of bad sections of the parking lot where needed.

The department store will actually be called a "Treasury" retail store. The name is derived from a group of Penney stores in the Midwest, called "Treasure Island."

The Penney's spokesman said the store will handle brand merchandise sold at a discount. Sales volume is expected to total between $15-18 million a year.

In other matters, the Planning Commission:

—Approved a tentative subdivision of the Braewood Development Co. condominium townhouse project, as the first step in a request to revise a portion of that site.

A permit for the whole project had been approved in 1971 for 295 townhouses. Braewood has constructed 177 units, but wished to revise the plans for the remaining 118 units.

The development is located just off Westborough Boulevard, between Skyline and Callan Boulevards.

—Accepted a noise level survey of the Oroweat Bakery Co. at 264 Spruce, showing that the disturbing noise that came from its storage silos had been quelled. Oroweat still must complete screening of the silos and other landscaping work to meet the requirements made by the Planning Commission June 25.

The matter arose when nearby residents complained about the noise. However, Robert Lewis, speaking for the neighborhood, said the people were satisfied with the lowering of the sound level.

County May Get Big HUD Grants

San Mateo County may receive as much as $1.3 million in federal funding next year for community and housing development programs.

County Manager M. D. Tarshes reported to the board of supervisors last Tuesday that the Housing and Community Development Act has been signed into law by President Gerald Ford, but that the appropriations bill for the funding still is before Congress.

Tarshes said that the funds in the program may be used to match other federal grant programs, to provide some social service programs where other funding has been turned down, and to develop a comprehensive planning, management and evaluation capability.

Tarshes stated that the county would have to recruit the cooperation of a number of cities to participate in the program in order to reach the minimum 200,000 population figure as an urban county to qualify for the grant.

However, he noted, urban cities with population of 50,000 or more also will qualify separately for grants. In this county that would make the cities of Daly City, San Mateo and Redwood City eligible.

In addition, cities with on-going community development projects under federal funding would be eligible, despite population. In San Mateo County, only Menlo Park would qualify, Tarshes said.

To qualify for funds under the program, eligible jurisdictions would be required to submit an annual application to the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) for approval.

The application, Tarshes reported, would have to include a three-year plan showing community development needs and objectives and a strategy to meet those needs.

Also, the application would have to contain a program to eliminate or prevent slums, blight and deterioration, to provide improved community facilities, with priority to activities benefiting low and moderate income families.

Further, there would have to be a housing assistance plan for these families, as well as certification of compliance with civil rights laws, adequate citizen participation and environmental impact analysis.

Tarshes said that the deadline for submission of applications to HUD for funding under the new program is April 15, 1975.

A county administrative task force has been assigned to delve into the program, the county manager reported. He said that he will submit additional reports to the board as work progresses.

Brisbane Gets Bank

An annexation which will give the town of Brisbane its first bank in history was approved last Tuesday by the County Board of Supervisors.

There was no opposition as the board ordered the annexation to the town of a 3.1 acre site at the northwest corner of Bayshore Boulevard and Old County Road.

The property is the location of a branch of the Bank of America which will serve the community.

Six weeks ago, the county Local Agency Formation Commission recommended the annexation. Proponents at that time said the annexation would culminate a 36-year effort to secure a bank within the town.

Cancelled

The Millbrae Planning Commission has cancelled its meeting of October 21, because no applications for commission action have been received, assistant city administrator Doug Dawson reports.

started from a storage shelf, but the exact cause remains under investigation.

Four apartments located above the firm sustained smoke damage, according to officials. Occupants of two of those apartments said they smelled smoke and heard an "explosion," which firemen explained as the fire bursting out the front window. No one was injured, officials said.

Daly City's Urban Pope

Learning Ranch Life From an Old Hand

Chuck Stanton is very short for a cowboy.

The Santa Rosa cattleman and rancher stands about three feet high and weighs about 60 pounds.

He rides the range on a tricycle and raises some of the best beef cattle anywhere.

And he's young too — just five years old. But he knows his business, having been in it for more than three years now, and he'll be taking the pride of his herd to the Grand National Exposition at the Cow Palace this year to see what it brings on the open market.

It's too bad, too, in a way. Chuck and Mischief, a huge Hereford range bull, have become pretty close since Chuck's partner, grandfather and best friend Urban Pope of Daly City, bought Mischief about a year ago.

"But Chuck's herd is so small we're going to have to let Mischief go and buy another bull to prevent inbreeding," said Pope. Chucky will be looking over the stock at the Grand National, which begins a 10-day run Oct. 25, to find a replacement for Mischief. He couldn't look in a better place. Thousands of head of cattle will be shown in what promises to be the West's biggest cattle sale.

Chucky will be the youngest exhibitor in the 30-year history of the combined rodeo, horse show and livestock exposition. With a new bull, Chucky can look forward to getting another heifer from Valentine, the first cow he ever owned.

Pope bought Valentine for Chucky for his second birthday. He'd been thinking about getting Chucky some cattle ever since the boy came West from Chicago with his mother, Mrs. Janet Lyon of San Francisco, when Chucky was three months old. "It was my dream back then, that I would buy him a cow and the calves that dropped from it, we'd raise and keep them," said Pope.

He bought a couple of acres in Santa Rosa on which to raise Valentine, and as the herd grew, so did the ranch. Chucky and his grandfather now own 21 acres of range land and have a cottage nearby. Besides Valentine and Mischief, Chucky owns three young steers — Baydo, Chicken, and Miss Easter.

"I grew up on a farm in Mississippi," said Pope, who Chucky calls Buddy. "I think it's a good way to learn to be a real man — it's the kind of job that takes a lot of responsibility."

Chucky's responsibilities, besides taking care of his herd, include things like fixing up the bullpen, painting, and repairing water lines.

It's a lot of work, especially since he and his partner only get up to the ranch on weekends. Chucky goes to kindergarten at the Longmeadow school in San Francisco, and Buddy works as a carpenter during the week.

Pope says he isn't pushing Chucky into a future on the ranch. "We'll kind of let it go and see what happens," said Pope. "But at least he'll grow up knowing something about the farm."

As for Chucky, his present plans don't include farm life. "I want to be an Indian," said Chucky, looking to the future. "A fishing Indian."

"We've waited a long time for transit in our County, and the need continues to grow. Not only are there more than 100,000 transit dependents in our county, but we must have an alternative to the problems accompanying increasing automobile use," he said.

Pacelli said a meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m., Oct. 17, at the War Memorial Community Center, 6655 Mission St., Daly City.

Topics to be discussed are "how the issue got on the ballot," and "the history of transit in San Mateo County."

'My Turn'

Reading the column entitled "My Turn" that appears in Newsweek Magazine is a profitable exercise. Here are essays by people who are competent to interpret the American scene to hundreds of readers.

For example in the Oct. 7 issue, Dr. Russel J. Thomsen of Walla Walla, Washington writes "I propose that America's standard of living is an illusion bordering on insanity. I further assert that many things could and should disappear." Having so declared himself Dr. Thomsen produces a list of such things.

You may want to add or to subtract from Dr. Thomsen's list, but his point is well taken. We spend much too much for unnecessary things and thereby contribute to the inflation that our leader calls public enemy number one.

Dr. Thomsen's list is as follows:

1. The comic page in newspapers.
2. The box in which a well-known hamburger chain puts its hamburger.
3. Recreational vehicles — "Fords" production genius gave to America the promise of a tin lizzie in front of every house. Then it was two cars — one for him and one for her. Then the American Dream blossomed to the three-car-plus family. Now, the same workaday family expects motorcycles, campers, snowmobiles, gliders, planes, boats.
4. Dr. Thomsen tells of a woman who works double shifts as a nurses aide so her 16 year old daughter will not be denied the right to have a car of her own.
5. Parsley served on food in restaurants.
6. Junk mail. "I realize," he writes, "that what is junk mail to one person might be truth, beauty or advertising to another — especially the purveyor. But my daily mail is cluttered with throwaways that I have neither the time or desire to open. Multiplied across the nation, this is a mountain of material that requires the rape of our forests, then clogs our postal system and finally overflows our garbage dumps."
7. Horse farms of less than 10 acres. Stray or unwanted animals.
8. Cars heavier than 3,000 pounds.
9. Aerosol spray cans. "America's engulfed in spray cans and their contents: Underarm deodorants and drying agents, frying pan unstickers and hair stickers. Spray cans have become the ecological disaster in the senseless defacing of America and its monuments."
10. Ditto for pop and beer cans.
11. The bagging of one or two-item purchases in the market.
12. Hats — except for hazardous duty in the military.
13. Trinkets — Whether in the glut of vending machines or hanging by the row in every store; plastic and tin toys, puzzles, charms and other worthless junk-in-the-making could disappear overnight and have only positive effect on our lives.

While Dr. Thomsen does not include it in his list, he cites such extravagances as someone flying from Spokane to New York to deliver a 10 minute address or even to attend the "average" conference. He further cites the waste caused by people who live in Monterey and commute to Los Angeles or San Francisco, also college students who insist on a last minute fling; also teen agers who have cars.

One of Dr. Thomsen's most interesting observations is that in America we build such places as Golden Gate Park so children will have a place "to turn somersaults," so adults may "exult in the preliminaries of love making or simply meditate." But what we get instead is large piles of dog manure.

Good Old Days

Mary's Help Expands Mental Health Unit

In response to increasing demands for inpatient psychiatric care, Mary's Help Hospital recently expanded its Mental Health Unit. Six mental health beds have been added to the unit, bringing the total number of beds to 19 of its currently licensed 26 beds.

According to Margaret K. Sainio, M.D., Ph.D., director of the Division of Psychiatric Medicine, the Mental Health Unit has been operating at virtually full capacity with a continuous waiting list since its opening in August, 1973.

Dr. Sainio hopes the expansion of the facility will allow patients greater access to the unit. "We want our patients and their physicians to know that the Mary's Help Hospital Mental Health Unit is available to meet their needs."

Six of the unit's beds are reserved for San Mateo County patients under the Short-Doyle Act. This California law insures that patients needing mental health services receive care in local communities rather than in state institutions.

The Mary's Help Hospital Mental Health Unit is a short term, acute treatment center; in most cases, patients are admitted for not longer than a one month treatment period. Treatment programs for patients are developed and conducted by a multidisciplinary mental health team. During hospitalization, private patients are under the care of their personal psychiatrists, while San Mateo County patients are treated by a county mental health team. The hospital staff coordinates and carries out programs without distinction between private and county patients.

The Mary's Help Hospital Unit is part of a developing program for community mental health services in northern San Mateo County which is partially funded by a grant from the National Institute for Mental Health (NIMH).

The NIMH grant was made to four North San Mateo County agencies which collectively provide a comprehensive range of mental health services to the community, including day care, inpatient and outpatient services, emergency care and, in the near future, a community.

"The expansion of the Mental Health Unit will fill a pressing need for inpatient psychiatric service in North San Mateo County," Dr. Sainio stated. In the future, Dr. Sainio hopes to provide outpatient psychiatric services through the hospital's outpatient clinics. She also plans to set up a child psychiatric study unit at Mary's Help in conjunction with the Department of Pediatrics.

"The Mary's Help Hospital Mental Health Unit will continue to implement new programs and services to reach out to people in the community and be responsive to their needs," Dr. Sainio concluded.

Jewish Women Sermon Topic

Sabbath Services will be conducted at Congregation B'nai Israel Friday, beginning at 8:30 p.m. Rabbi Ira Book and Cantor Jacob Graudenz conduct the service and are assisted by members of the Religious Practices Committee and the Congregation.

Rabbi Book has selected "Jewish Women in Our Tradition" as his sermon topic. A highlight of the evening will be the Hebrew naming of Tamara Soss, new-born daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Edward Soss. An Oneg Shabbat (social hour) will follow. Sabbath services will continue on Saturday morning at 10 a.m.

President of Congregation B'nai Israel, George Bilick, announces the formation of a Parent-Teacher Organization. The purpose of the group will be to provide parental assistance to the Hebrew and Sunday Schools of the Congregation and to Rabbi Ira Book, Principal, Dr. Martin Lemesh, Hebrew School Chairman and Henry Steinberg, Sunday School Chairman.

The initial organization meeting will be held at the synagogue, 1575 Annie St., Daly City, Oct. 22 at 8 p.m. Among the topics for discussion will be busing and the formation of a school board.

Winter Month Repairs

Select Contractor Carefully

By Lorene Beasley
Editor of BBB Barometer

It is the season when homeowners begin to think about repairing leaky gutters, maybe a new roof, and in general, fix up the home for winter months.

It is also the season for roaming handymen. Do not be misled by bargain prices or savings claims of up to 50 per cent off. Unfortunately many such jobs are never done properly and many times are never finished.

If you are planning to have any construction done on your home or business, choose your contractor carefully. Make sure he is properly licensed. Check his background with the Better Business Bureau. The firm may not be in business 10, 15 or 20 years to fulfill its guarantee.

Obtain more than one bid on the same job with exactly the same specifications. Does the firm you may be considering provide liability and compensation insurance protection in the event of an accident?

What will be the entire cost of the completed job including interest and service charges? Shop for money you may need. The cost of borrowing money varies with different sources. Compare annual interest rates.

Banks and lending institutions offer FHA loans for home improvements that will make property more liveable and valuable. However, contrary to what many borrowers believe, FHA does not guarantee the work or the contractor but only requires that the lender approve the dealer who arranges for the insured FHA loans. If the work is to be subtle, be sure the contractor posts a bond to protect you against liens on your home.

If your home improvement work is the result of damages covered by insurance, check with the insurance company before signing any contract.

Insist upon a complete reliable copy of your contract from the salesman or company. Read it carefully and make sure that you fully understand the contents before signing. You and the contractor are bound by everything set down in the contract.

Does the contract cover both labor and materials? Are the quality, brand, grade, weight, color and size of materials to be used specified in the contract? Who will make good on the guarantee, the dealer or the manufacturer? Remember any guarantee is as good as the firm that gives it.

Never sign a completion certificate until all the work called for in the contract has been completed. When you sign, you are telling the contractor and the lending agency that a job has been done according to contract provisions and to your satisfaction. Be careful not to sign a completion certificate along with a sales order.

Daly City Duo Sets Wedding Plans

A party at the Daly City home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Trevizo was the occasion for their son, Robert, and Nanette C. Kast to disclose wedding plans.

The future bride is the daughter of Mrs. Adelia C. Kast of Daly City. She has two sisters, Wanda and Jana Kast. Serafin Martinez and Mrs. Ofelia Martinez are her uncle and aunt.

The prospective bridegroom has four sisters, Joanne, Kathy, Diane and Marylou Trevizo, and four brothers, Ray, Dave, Rich and Sam Trevizo. He is the grandson of Herman Trevizo and Mrs. Mary Trevizo, and the nephew of Mrs. Bena Church and George Church.

Nanette and Robert both studied at Jefferson High School and the College of San Mateo.

Ryan Office Requests

Volunteers

Congressman Leo J. Ryan's (D-San Mateo County) re-election headquarters is open at 150 El Camino Real, San Bruno.

"We're looking for volunteers to help answer phones," said Norma Corey, campaign coordinator. "We've just been swamped with calls."

The campaign office also is in need of some more furnishings — a couple of card tables, a typing stand and more folding chairs. "If anyone would like to help out, with precinct walking, answering phones or with a card table," Norma added, "Call us at 583-3022."

NELL

Good morning, good cooks.

Winging it's way across the country, via air mail, comes another fine recipe from my friend Jane Ward in Cincinnati. The main ingredient is ground beef, every one's favorite in these days of high food prices, with golden mushroom soup to give it dash.

SALISBURY STEAK DELUXE

- 1 can (10½ oz.) condensed golden mushroom soup
- 1 Tablespoon prepared mustard
- 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
- 1 teaspoon horseradish (optional)
- 1 egg
- 1½ pounds ground beef
- ½ cup dry bread crumbs
- ¼ cup chopped onion
- ½ teaspoon salt
- A dash of pepper
- 2 Tablespoons cooking oil
- ¼ cup water
- 2 Tablespoons chopped parsley (optional)

Stir together the condensed golden mushroom soup, one tablespoon prepared mustard, two teaspoons Worcestershire sauce and one teaspoon horseradish. (I left the horseradish out of my sauce, deferring to the tastes of my family.) Set aside. In mixing bowl, beat the egg slightly, stir in one-fourth (¼) cup of soup mixture, add the one and one-half pounds ground beef, one-half cup each bread crumbs and chopped onion, half teaspoon salt and dash of pepper. Mix well. Shape into six patties. Brown in oil in skillet on both sides, drain off excess fat. To the soup mixture add the half cup water and two tablespoons parsley. Spoon over the patties, cover and cook over low heat for 20 minutes. Stir the sauce now and then.

Serve with mashed potatoes or rice. Serves 6.

I often wonder how I'd ever write this column with the generosity of friends. Louise Gunn gave me this recipe for oatmeal cookies, it's easy to make, mixed by hand and makes a goodly amount of not-too-sweet crispy oat squares. And uses just ½ cup cup of sugar.

LOUISE'S OAT CAKES

- 1½ cups old-fashioned rolled oats
- 1½ cups all purpose flour
- ½ cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon soda
- ¾ cup shortening
- ½ cup cold water (about)

Combine the one and one-half cups each rolled oats and flour, one-half cup sugar, one teaspoon salt and one-half teaspoon soda. Cut in the three-fourths cup shortening. Add enough water to make a stiff dough. Divide into two balls. Roll each one-eighth inch thick. Dust top with additional rolled oats and press into dough with rolling pin. Cut in squares. Bake on lightly greased cookie sheet in 350-degree oven 15 minutes. Makes 48 or more, depending on size of squares.

Daly City Duo to Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Merrill of Daly City are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Catherine, to Michael A. Fesinmeyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Fesinmeyer, also of Daly City.

The couple plans a spring wedding.

A graduate of Westmoor High School, Catherine is now attending Skyline College. She is the sister of Bob, Pam, Nancy and Ken Merrill.

The prospective bridegroom, a Jefferson High School alumnus, is a student at the College of San Mateo.

Louanne Heath

A busy end to this mid-week of October for the local Girl Scout leadership. The annual kickoff is slated for tomorrow morning at 10 a.m. in the Hope Lutheran Church.

Patrol demonstrations, as well as an investiture ceremony for adult leaders, will highlight the activities. A pot luck luncheon, put together by the experienced leaders, will honor the newly appointed leaders in our community.

This weekend, new leaders and experienced scouts will be enjoying a uniquely Daly City experience, a Junior Jamboree. The outing, set for Saturday, has been planned by the local camping committee, headed by Mrs. Mary Ann Dale.

Scout camping, with reservations, girls planning, girls cooking, girls doing fire building, et cetera, can be pretty scary for an inexperienced leader. So, Mrs. Dale and her committee have made the reservations, provided teen-aged aides to demonstrate fire lighting, lead songs and tell about camping tools, and provided leaders with a first class chance to see a camp out operate in the best possible manner. The plan is to help new leaders build their own confidence and that of the girls in her troop.

The jamboree will be at Junipero Serra Park and troops hoping to take part must make reservations with Mrs. Dale, 992-0835.

PACIFICA'S Mrs. Janice McCraney, president of the San Francisco Alumnae Chapter of Alpha Iota sorority, has named Mrs. Barbara Wolowic the chairwoman of the chapter's Bake Sale.

The sale will be held during the West Portal Street Fair on Friday and Saturday between 9:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m.

IF THERE is any chance of more fall weather ahead let's hope that it arrives the end of this month when the ladies of the Westlake Catholic Women will be attending a Day at the Races. There is still time to make reservations for the day. Tickets, costing $8.50 entitle guests to admission to the track, a complimentary program and buffet luncheon in the Turf Club.

In other activity at Our Lady of Mercy Parish, the Sodality will have an enrollment breakfast in the parish hall Oct. 27, following the 9 a.m. Mass.

Mrs. Peter Balestrieri, spiritual director of the Sodality, has arranged for Father Parenti to serve as moderator for the breakfast program.

There will be no charge of the breakfast but Mrs. Harry Lindner, Sodality president, requests that anyone planning to attend call her at 756-1069 so that arrangements may be made to seat and serve everyone attending the event.

MRS. ANTHONY MOYES, president of the Rioridan Guild, has named Mrs. James Choate chairwoman of the guild's annual fall fashion show.

This year the event, Rioridan Follies, will be held Oct. 26 in Chaminade Hall.

AFTER ONE MAD month of living the life of an American suburbanite with whirlwind Mrs. Eugene Crandall, Mrs. Daphne Fellows of Cotswolds, England has flown home to "recooperate" in her lovely Georgian home in one of England's most famous resort areas.

Mrs. Crandall hosted a Farewell Luncheon for her friend, just prior to flight time, and among those attending were Mrs. Jack Mihalovich, Mrs. Bart Conannon, Mrs. Jerry Stringer, Mrs. Donald Piercy, Mrs. Konstantinos Poulos and her mother Mrs. Christine Hodges, Mrs. Murray Freedman, Mrs. James Kennaugh and Mrs. Charles Poggio.

Mrs. Crandall and Mrs. Fellows once worked together in a library in Coventry and their friendship and correspondence have continued through the years since World War II.

THE NINETY-SIXTY anniversary party of the Alumnae of St. Peter's, held this past weekend on Carlin Commons at the St. Ignace College Preparatory, was a huge success for a number of reasons among which was the delightful art exhibit which accompanied the wine tasting.

B. Jeremy Dwyer, poet and artist; Bruce Allan Walker, wood sculptor; Tim Thompson, artist and Brugnara, artist, were among those talented contributors to the outdoor exhibit, according to Mrs. Dorothy Burns of Daly City, the publicity chairwoman.

MEMBERS OF the North Peninsula Auxiliary of Florence, Crittentervices recently met in the Breuners' community room for the regular monthly business session and heard a progress report on the upcoming Hundred Years of Fashion show which will be put on by Mrs. Patti McClain, past auxiliary president, and the owner of the famous Century Collection of fashions for American women.

The program will be presented on Nov. 20 in the California Golf Club in South San Francisco.

Flying Samaritans Help Pedro Lopez 'Back on His Feet'

Last April, a 38 year old Ensenada fisherman slipped while working aboard a boat and hit his back on a hatchway.

A sharp pain ripped through his body. Within the next few days the pain had moved to his legs, making each movement difficult. He was no longer able to work on the fishing boat, and the future seemed to have little in store for Pedro Lopez, his wife and their three children.

For six months the fisherman struggled with his pain. He received treatment, but there was no improvement in his condition. Then Pedro Lopez met Flying Samaritan Paul J. Pitlyk, M.D., Burlington Neurosurgeon and member of the Mary's Help Hospital Medical-Dental Staff. The doctor was making his monthly trip to the Flying Samaritan Clinic in Baja California, Mexico. For Lopez, the Flying Samaritans were the last hope.

A preliminary examination revealed that Pedro Lopez had a severe spinal cord disorder. Further tests at the clinic confirmed the original diagnosis, and indicated an operation was needed to correct the problem. Pedro Lopez, however, was impoverished, his job gone and his savings long since exhausted. Without surgery, his ability to move, to walk and to return to work would be limited by severe pain. But how could an unemployed fisherman afford surgery?

The Flying Samaritans went to work. Dr. Pitlyk agreed to perform the operation gratis. Robert Kradjian, M.D., and Gordon Cless, M.D., of the Mary's Help Hospital Medical-Dental Staff volunteered to serve, respectively, as surgical assistant and anesthesiologist. Mary's Help Hospital, which has worked with the Flying Samaritans in the past, donated complete hospital care free of charge to Senor Lopez for the duration of the treatment.

The Flying Samaritans arranged for Lopez' transportation to the hospital, and on Sept. 29, he was admitted to Mary's Help. On Monday, the operation was performed and the lesion pressing on his spine was removed. The operation was judged a success.

After a week's recovery period at the hospital, Pedro Lopez was flown to San Diego, where he spent a few days recuperating in the sun as the guest of members of the Flying Samaritans.

The Flying Samaritans is a nonprofit, private charitable organization which provides medical assistance in remote areas. Volunteer doctors, nurses and other professionals visit Flying Samaritan clinics in Northern California and the Mexican states of Sinaloa, Sonora and Baja California, and travel to other locations for consultations, emergencies and special clinics.

Helping Pedro Lopez back onto his feet is an accomplishment the Flying Samaritans can look to with satisfaction. "The goal of the Flying Samaritans," a spokesman stated, "is to encourage those we aid to help themselves toward a more productive future."

Marvin Stuart, Bishop of the San Francisco Area of The United Methodist Church, was the key-note speaker of the program given that evening.

Brisbane

Loses Case

Brothers William and Charles Mozetti, owners of Mozetti Motel in Brisbane, have won a $75,000 judgment against the city because of a street improvement project which they contended caused flooding at their property.

A jury returned the judgment last Tuesday before Superior Court Judge G. Brooks Ice in Redwood City, following two days of deliberations and three weeks of trial.

Judge Ice said the brothers, represented by attorney Dan Modens, claimed that the city elevation of Visitation Mall during a 1971 street improvement project resulted in conditions which allowed rains to damage an office building and a storage building during a heavy rain Oct. 11, 1972.

Water also tossed debris around the motel and trailer park area, the plaintiffs contended.

The city, represented by attorney Robert E. Lee, contended that the storm was one of those which might occur every 100 years.

SSF Society Seeks to Save Martin House

Twenty-five South San Franciscans gathered at City Hall Wednesday night to organize the Historic Society of South San Francisco, with the goal of saving the 32-year-old Martin House.

They responded to a letter sent out by City Manager Ed Alario, to over 75 local civic clubs and labor unions.

A committee to save the estate was formed Wednesday, headed by Mike Nornellini. It includes, Paul Tracy, George Thanos, Lehe Balli Merlini, and noted architect, George Avanesian. In addition, several others will work with the committee, including Bette Higgins, Louann Kiellian and Frank Kitzmiller. The committee will seek the volunteer services of an attorney and accountant, among other experts.

At its first meeting, the committee discussed means of seeking donations of tarpaulins and other materials designed to preserve the remains of the building from expected rains.

In addition, the committee listed names of 66 persons who had volunteered to help restore the home "because it is the only landmark left in South San Francisco." The names were taken in a petition circulated over the weekend in Tanforan Shopping Center by 14-year old Frank Kitzmiller, a student at Moore School who resides in South San Francisco.

Kitzmiller also produced a

601-name petition urging "South San Francisco to use any means possible to save the historic Martin mansion. This building is too sacred to destroy and must be saved, even if the city must use general funds to do it."

The only opponent of the project at the meeting appeared to be Alario, who, acting as the "devil's advocate," expressed doubt that South San Franciscans would tolerate the use of city funds to restore the estate. He ventured that most citizens would prefer money be spent for their "pet projects" in recreation or parks, for necessities such as sewer lines and streets.

Alario added, however, that if enough support to save the house was generated, the City Council would acquire the property by trading it with a similar piece of property on nearby Commercial Avenue, site of a once-intended firehouse. The committee, however, would have to pay for restoration, he said.

Edna deLarios urged using the city's beautification fund, supported by the hotel tax, for repairing the exterior of the building, and suggested that the interior, interior decorated by different civil clubs, Alario doubted that there would be enough money available in the fund to be used for restoration since the city must now pay $70,000 a year just for maintenance of the beautification projects that have been built.

Kitzmiller reported an enthusiastic reception to his petition, noting a surprising number of persons who urged the city to pay whatever is needed to restore it.

Ryan Disagrees With Tax Plan

Rep. Leo Ryan, D-San Mateo, last Tuesday said that while he agrees with substantial portions of President Ford's speech on the economy, he disagrees strongly with the proposed income tax surcharges.

"You are being asked to pay for additional programs to get him out of the hole," Ryan said.

Boy, 11 Hit by DC Bus

An 11-year-old Daly City boy remains in critical condition today at Mary's Help Hospital where he was rushed Wednesday after being struck by a Greyhound bus.

MacArthur Cruz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Cruz, 126 St. Francis Blvd., was hit and critically injured about 3:30 p.m. when he apparently ran in front of the bus driven by Richard Linn.

The child had been discharged from a Community Bus Service school bus, driven by Raymond McCowan, seconds before the accident.

California Highway Patrol investigators said the victim ran in front of the stopped bus and into the path of the Greyhound bus traveling in the opposite direction at what police described as a "reasonable speed."

"He wants to have a balanced budget. The additional revenue would come to $5 billion — he plans to pay for programs such as extending unemployment benefits and broadening eligibility, and having a public works program."

Rep. Paul N. McCloskey Jr., R-Menlo Park, couldn't be reached for comment.

Ryan said the larger portion of the talk by Ford to Congress was a "patriotic call to everybody to pitch in and help out." But, the congressman added, "he saved the hard one (the surcharge) for last, and that was the main part of the speech."

"President Ford made no distinction between the guy earning $15,000 and trying to support a family of four kids, and others who make $50,000 or $100,000," Ryan said.

"In terms of the necessities of life, the fellow paying $100,000 is not being asked to pay that much more," Ryan said.

Rams, Warriors Take Lead

By JERRY LITTELL
Post Correspondent

Westmoor's surprisingly stingy defense and South San Francisco's depth-laden offense enabled those teams to remain the only undefeated North Peninsula League schools after two weeks of action.

The Rams edged visiting Terra Nova 12-7 Friday while South City blasted Oceana 36-0 Friday night. In other conference games El Camino edged Jefferson 7-6 and Serramonte upended Half Moon Bay 25-6.

Westmoor's defense set up both Ram touchdowns, on a fumble recovery and an interception. The defense had to be tough, as the offensive line was unable to cope or adjust to the Tiger defensive strategy.

So shifty were the Tigers that Westmoor could get only 50 yards rushing and 23 yards passing. The Rams had 23 yards total in the second half.

But by the half, Westmoor had a 12-0 lead, enough to hold on to a share of first place.

Terry Hartsfield's 38-yard punt rolled dead on the Tiger two early in the first quarter. Tony Ballestrasse blasted up the middle for 11 and hit the line once more for another two, but fumbled. Ram defensive lineman John DeBenedetto recovered on the 14.

Eight plays later after a tremendous fake dive to fullback Danny Tong, quarterback Harold Day rolled left and plunged for the first Ram score.

Three minutes before the half ended Tong intercepted a Rich Stratfull pass on the TN 24 and returned to the 13. Three plays later Tong carried the final two yards for Westmoor's final scoring.

Terra Nova's offense was no great shakes either. The Tigers managed only 82 yards off their bread-and-butter rushing game, and avoid a shutout on a 56-yard fumble recovery by defensive back Tim Gartner.

Having gained the reputation over the past two decades of a grind-it-out, nose up brand of football, the South City Warriors are surprisingly scoring on passes and long outside scampers.

Warrior coach Ray

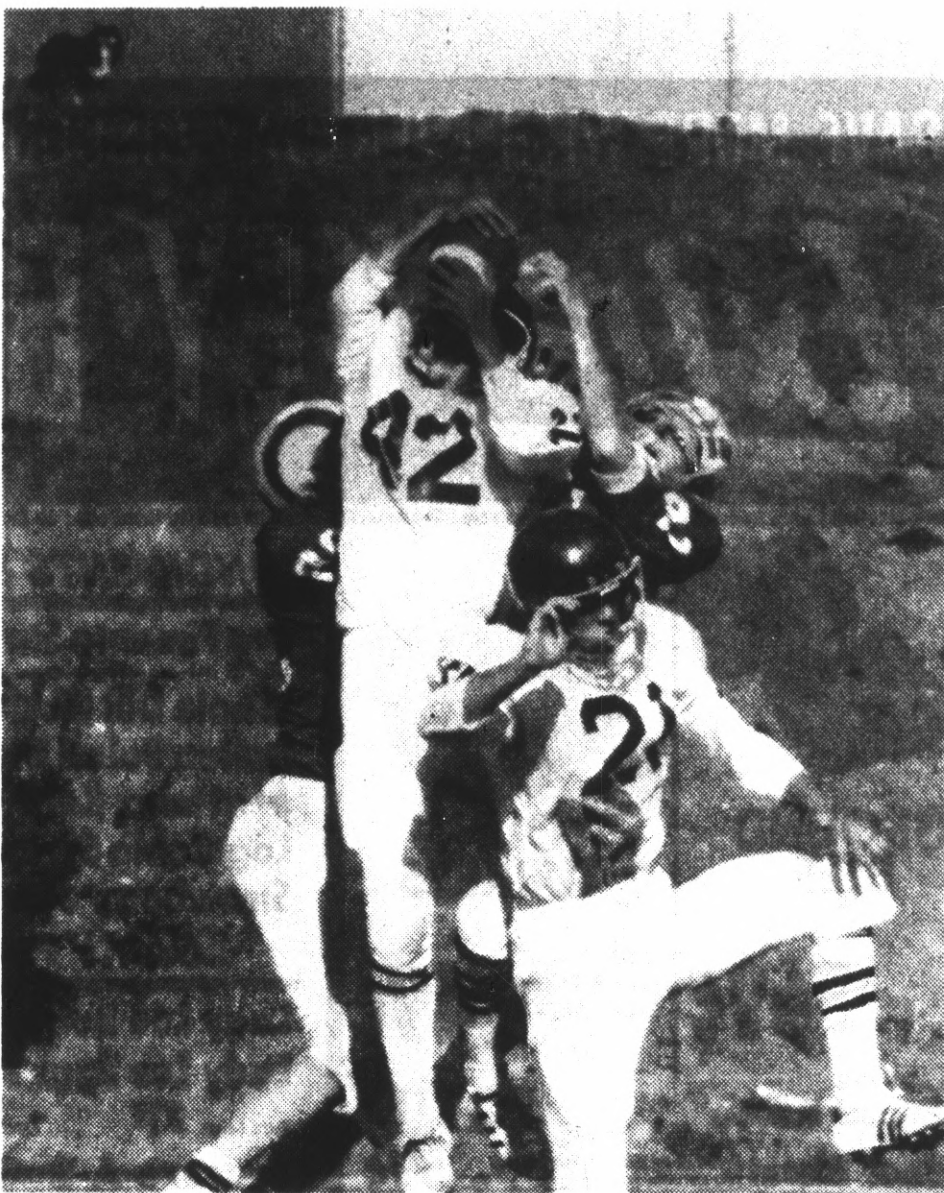

DeJong has even let his hair grow longer, gotten a new set of mod shirts and wild ties, and throws on third down plays with short yardage.

Halfback Tali Ena ate up 137 yards for the Warrior offense, which seemed not bothered a whit by the Shark speedsters. In fact, on Ena's 60-yard TD run he was pulling away from Oceana defenders. On Frank Cesarz's two TD passes, one to Paul Bachtold and one to Jim Selvitella, the receivers easily got behind the quick Oceana secondary.

The Warriors ran up 294 yards on the ground to 83 for Oceana and again amazed fans by putting the ball in the air 12 times.

The Warrior defense did its part by picking up three of four Oceana fumbles and intercepting two passes.

El Camino was trying to inject some life in its offense, but got all it could handle from Jefferson's 19-man squad. The Colts got their winning points on a three-yard pass from Gene Montgomery to John Rico, followed by Gary Ottonello's conversion kick.

Scramble

Even a dog was interested in this scramble for a pass during Westmoor High-Terra Nova action last Friday.

Meyersieck Aids Pads

By STEVE JOHNSON
Post Correspondent

Now that Serra High's Jim Meyersieck has tasted the glories of offense, defense may not seem the same.

Meyersieck, a starting cornerback, has recently spent time as a reserve set-back due to a rash of injuries in the Padre backfield.

Saturday, an emergency call came and he responded by sparking a fourth quarter surge that carried Serra to a 48-28 West Catholic Athletic League opening win over Riordan at San Mateo High.

The victory, accomplished in a heated battle that had combined figures of 711 yards total offense and 200 yards total penalties, gave the Padres a 5-0 record. Riordan is 2-2.

With 10:12 left in the game, underdog Riordan put Serra behind for the first time all season at 21-20 on a long fumble return for a score.

On Meyersieck's first carry, little more than a minute later, he gave the Padres back the lead for good on an 18-yard TD burst set up by the passing of Jim Freitas.

Two minutes hence, Meyersieck grabbed a 17-yard scoring pass from Freitas after Jim Milligan's fumble recovery deep in Crusader territory.

Serra put the visitors from the City away with two more scores to complete a 28-point period.

Freitas threw for 250 yards (17-29) and three touchdowns. He is now well over the 1,000-yard mark with 16 TDs.

Eight of those strikes have gone to John Caselli, who had two against Riordan from 25 and 37 yards. The first one capped a five-play 65-yard drive at the end of the first half that Freitas engineered in 56 seconds.

Serra's ground game showed marked improvement. Jim Walsh had 79 yards on 15 carries and one score before being hurt.

Meyersieck, though, was a capable sub.

Rick Garban, who has not missed a game despite a variety of ailments, bashed over two touchdowns.

Riordan rushed for 273 yards against an injury-riddled Padre defense and matched in points what Serra's four non-league opponents managed together.

The Padres opportunistically came up with five Crusader turnovers, three leading directly to scores.

DC Girl to Reign Over GG Swim

Vicky Morino, a 15 year old sophomore at Jefferson High School, Daly City, and a member of their girl's swim team, will reign over the Dolphin Swimming and Boating Club's Golden Gate Swim on Oct. 20.

Jump-off time, under the south tower, is 9 a.m. The spectator boat, open to the public, will leave Pier 43 1/2 at 8:45 a.m. sharp.

Vicky will present trophies to swimmers finishing at the Dolphin Club at 1 p.m. Local men competing include Jim Morino and George Tracy of Daly City, Jack Bettencourt of South San Francisco and Danny Padilla of Pacifica.

Vicky's father (Jim) will be attempting his 26th crossing of the span, which is traditionally the final event of the San Francisco Bay open water races.

Second Banana

It's only fair that since, over the years, we've picked on Gordy Saltau and Bob Fouts and Monte Moore and Milt Kahn, we should offer equal time to the Giants' second banana on the broadcast crew, Art Eckman.

Reason we've waited so long is because we wanted to give him a chance to improve, but he didn't. Oh, Eckman is a professional broadcaster, alright. He has a good voice and he's articulate, and we have a little doubt that he understands the game of baseball. His problem is that he's inattentive, thus careless, and that he evidently never did his homework.

His most common weakness was in leaving the listener hanging. How many times did he say something like, "And there's a line drive to left field..." and then never let you know whether it was caught or had fallen in. You'd have to wait for the next batter to get up, so that you could learn whether or not the pitcher was winding up or taking his stretch.

There were other irritants, less common, but consistent, mainly in the area of losing track of the events of the game. He reached his zenith during one of the last games of the season when he declared the game over, and actually only eight innings had been completed.

But his worst sins were in his lack of knowledge of the personnel in big league baseball. We offer three typical examples, but such errors occurred often enough to fill several columns.

When reading reports of games in the American League, one day, he continually insisted that "Yankee first baseman Kusiak" had hit a homerun to win a game for them. Kusiak, actually, was a Minnesota first baseman who had hit a homerun to win a game for the Twins. It was obviously a wire service goof, but a professional baseball broadcaster should have known immediately that the Yankees did not have Kusiak on their roster.

When Carl Morton, an Atlanta pitcher, came to bat once this season, Eckman labeled him a "typical weak hitting pitcher." True, Morton at the time was hitting about .170, and Eckman was obviously judging by the record book. But any knowledgeable baseball fan would have realized that Morton, a former outfielder and one of baseball's better hitting pitchers, was just having a bad year at the plate. Later on, when Al Michaels was broadcasting and Morton came to the plate, Michaels — as he so often had to during the year — cleared up Eckman's goof by explaining to the listening audience that Morton really was a generally good hitting pitcher.

And finally, when the Giants were playing Houston late in the season, Skio Jutze, a reserve catcher just called up from the minors, entered the game, and Eckman characterized him as a "fresh rookie," when in fact Jutze had previously spent two years in the majors and had caught 111 big league games.

Eckman might wish to defend this as Eckman's first year broadcasting in the majors, and that he shouldn't be responsible for the American League, but that is a weak defense. He knew last winter that he would be with the Giants this season, and he can read and study the Sporting News and record books just like any other fan. And as a professional broadcaster being paid expert's wages, he should be knowledgeable about every aspect of baseball, especially with the biographical and other material available to those in the media. Broadcasters have many "idle" hours, especially on the road, and if they don't know what in hell they're talking about, they should sacrifice those eating and drinking and tennis hours to learning their business.

Footnote: Maybe we're just sore because the new broadcast team apparently jinxed the Giants.

Footnote to Footnote: If you don't like our analysis of Eckman, he and Michaels HAVE to like it. They believe, after all, in "telling it like it is."

Hope Al Attles remembered to buy a Genius Cap this summer. He'll need it without Clyde Lee.

In virtually one swell swoop the Warriors have lost the best defensive center in basketball, the best defensive forward in the game, and one of the best shooting forwards among the pros. In return they got maybe a first, but very possibly a second string center.

Losing Nate Thurmond would have put more of a rebounding burden on Lee, but without Lee, who will rebound? When Rick Barry tried to take some of the rebounding responsibilities early last year when Lee was hurt his scoring suffered. But at least Russell was there to help take up the scoring slack.

Let's all pray that Derrek Dickey, Keith Wilkes and George Johnson develop overnight.

There have been a lot of rumors about Giant trades, but let's hope that if the Bobby Bonds-Dave Kingman for Nolan Ryan swap is for real, that Ryan doesn't revert to his previous un-success in the National League. And keep in mind that the two biggest most recent American League pitching successes have come from Fergie Jenkins and Gaylord Perry, a couple of National League pitchers who apparently had slipped over the hill in their last seasons in the senior circuit.

Speaking of Ryan, how much more effective would he have been in the days before the batting helmet?

Wes Westrum now admits, as we noted earlier in the season, that one of the biggest Giant needs is a power hitting third baseman. They aren't easy to come by, but the

CSM Falls to Third

By FRED BAER
Post Correspondent

College of San Mateo played some of its best football of the season for the first half of Saturday's Golden Gate Conference showdown with San Jose CC.

But a 10-0 lead quickly evaporated in a flurry of second half turnovers and the visiting Jaguars came back for a convincing 21-10 triumph and sole possession of first place (at 3-0). CSM 2-1, which next visits West Valley (0-3) Saturday afternoon, fell to third place behind De Anza (2-0).

CSM coach Steve Shafer was prompt to predict, "San Jose's not going to get through the league unbeaten — but we've still got to win out."

Shafer pointed out, "We played very well for 30 minutes and very poorly for another 30. We gave them the opportunities and they took them and scored," he added. "The team that makes the fewest mistakes in JC football wins. You just don't give people 14 points and win."

And that's just what CSM's offense did — two turnovers leading directly to Jaguar touchdowns, the first scored upon the Bulldogs since the first game of a now 3-2 campaign. "The whole game was three or four plays — by us," Shafer quipped.

San Jose got all of the points it needed in less than two minutes during the third quarter.

A CSM fumble gave the Jaguars possession on the Bulldog six. On the second play, San Jose reserved tailback Ron Rowland ran four yards for the score to cut the deficit to 10-7. San Mateo ran off three quick plays after the kickoff and punted. Two plays later, Rowland, who didn't play in the first half, burst free up the middle and went 55 yards untouched for the winning tally.

Jim Reed's 27-yard interception return iced it for the Jags in the fourth quarter — and was one of four interceptions by San Jose after the intermission.

An interception led to CSM's only TD, just before halftime. Paul Kolesnikow, who had two thefts for the day, picked off his first in the flat on his own ten and went 85 yards before being tackled on the five. Larry Backstrom's five-yard run got the points.

Veteran Steve LaPlant started off the scoring in the first quarter with a 47-yard field goal.

Although Backstrom rambled for 103 yards in the game, 97 in the first half, that was just about the net total of CSM's rushing offense, thanks to five quarterback sacks by the Jaguars.

"We were playing, basically, with our second string center and guards because of injuries," Shafer pointed out.

Did Punishment Fit 'Crime'?

By CHRISTOPHER STAVE
Post Sports Writer

"WHATEVER HAPPENED to El Camino?" North County football fans wondered after the Colts, NPL title contenders, barely managed to beat a 19-man Jefferson squad 7-6 last weekend.

It's hard to say. Perhaps the Colts were looking ahead to renewing their rivalry with South San Francisco this week.

And perhaps losing a coach had something to do with it.

Head coach Tom McCormick reportedly was temporarily suspended from duty by principal Robert Keropian; McCormick was away from the practice field most of the week.

Why? McCormick reportedly had his team walk home after losing to Westmoor the previous week. Some angry parents got in touch with Keropian. McCormick said he would not be allowed to resume his duties until he signed a letter saying he would never do something like that again.

Did the punishment fit the "crime"? El Camino's bus never showed up after the Westmoor game. Long after Westmoor players had showered and departed, McCormick and the four teachers with him decided it wouldn't hurt to walk the three or four miles back.

McCormick, and the other teachers, walked home with the team.

As a teacher and legally responsible supervisor, McCormick reportedly made a decision and suffered a penalty he must have felt to be demeaning.

Even worse, he had to promise not to move his team on his own initiative again. Suppose that an ugly situation arose after a game? It's happened before and could well happen again. Now McCormick, who is just as responsible for those students as their parents as long as they're in his care, is forbidden any freedom of choice in his actions.

That's not a comfortable situation for a teacher to be in.

PRODIGAL'S RETURN — Westmoor High's Rob Baptista, the 1973 All-NPL running back who quit the team earlier this fall to concentrate on baseball, has un-quit.

SOUTH CITY baseball coach Bob Brian, recently returned from a coaches' convention in Denver, reports a few rule changes on the way.

Here's a biggie. Magnesium bats are now legal. Magnesium bats? Also, players must now wear caps and shoes. Nothing, however, has been said about clothes.

There are two major changes. First, the intentional walk will be automatic. No time will be taken up with four usually token pitches.

Also, there's been a change in the appeal rule. This next season a team will be able to make an appeal any time after a play is made and before the next pitch.

Principal Denies Rumor

There is no truth to persistent reports that El Camino High School Football Coach Tom McCormick makes his players walk home every time his team loses, says Principal Bob Keropian. The South San Francisco principal acknowledged he had received numerous telephone calls complaining of the coach, but Keropian blew up when a reporter asked Monday about a rumor McCormick had been suspended for one week without pay for punishing his players for their loss.

"There's absolutely no truth to it," Keropian declared.

It was true, he said, that Westmoor pulled an upset over El Camino Oct. 4, 13-7. However, McCormick did not punish his players, Keropian said.

Keropian said a bus had broken down and El Camino was one driver short. After a long wait, McCormick and

Jim Van Dine Sidelined; CSM Bulldogs Are Sixth

With star runner Jim Van Dine sidelined with a recurring leg injury, College of San Mateo had to be content as gracious hosts for the third annual CSM Invitational cross-country meet Saturday at Crystal Springs in Belmont.

The Bulldogs finished sixth in the 11-team large division with 167 points as favorite San Joaquin Delta took team honors with 40 points, ahead of West Valley (66). Henry Perez of Delta won the four mile race in 20:50, with Damon Wood CSM's leading finisher in 21st place (22:09). Skyline placed fourth in the small division and Canada 12th while De Anza and Monterey Peninsula tied for the team title with 50 points and the exact same team times of 1:12:35. De Anza's Paul Frederickson won the race in 21:14 and Skyline's Bob Powell was ninth (22:06).

BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD JOHNSON

Stickney's Patrons Arrange Food Delivered

Personalized service at Adrian Stickney's Shirt Tail: Four patrons made a habit of dining at this splendid Palo Alto restaurant on a certain evening of the week, usually taking the same table and being provided with expert service by the same waitress. On one particular evening, only three of the regulars showed up (the fourth party was hospitalized at Stanford Hospital). To show their concern, the trio arranged for the fourth member to enjoy his favorite meal of prime ribs of beef in the hospital. Waitress Linda Clare took the time on her day off to personally deliver the meal. Obviously, loyal customers mean a great deal to the staff at the Shirt Tail.

Everyone has a dish they favor — and your Bright Lighter included. As a suggestion, try the Prime Ribs of Beef at Scotty Campbell's in Redwood City. No matter your cut preference (rare, medium or well), the choice beef is as tender as a mother's smile. This nightly dinner special is side-dished with stuffed baked potato or Idaho baked potato (served with sour cream and chives). Circle Star Theater goers and headliners find this well-appointed restaurant an admirable place to entertain. Hear ye, hear ye: Small, medium and extra large pizzas are available to eat in or take out at Romano's Italian restaurant, located in picturesque Rockaway Beach. And justly famous Italian foods are also available. Incidentally, Enrico Romano caters to special dishes for groups, with advance notice. Even Murray Lehr is astonished at the success of his beautiful Lehr's Greenhouse in San Francisco. The fabulous garden restaurant is doing absolute capacity business at luncheon, dinner and Sunday brunch. Christopher's, a new Hof Brau operation in San Mateo created by Ed Murphy and Tom Chigas, offers several daily hot plates and many Italian submarine sandwiches (hot and cold). Breakfasts also, with eggs, omelettes and side orders served until 11 a.m.

"Entertainment The Nevada Way" See Kay

Fun tip of the week: Round up your friends and head for some excitement in one of Nevada's playlands of slot machines, gaming, and entertainment. For an easy way to go, call Kay (345-0488) and ask about her many Nevada Tours Drive Ups or charter deals. Straight reservations or packages to Reno, South or North Tahoe, Carson City and Las Vegas.

When Nick Gust says his Captain Charles restaurant is "tops" for seafood, he means just that. A friendly reception, gourmet specialties, and a nautical atmosphere are basic attractions at this Rockaway Beach restaurant. Also located along the shoreline of Pacifica and offering a full panoramic view of the ocean are Nick Gust's beautiful Moonraker restaurant, featuring continental fare, and Nick's, where breakfast, luncheon and dinner menus are afforded. With the Holiday season just around the corner, now is the suggested time to contact Al Stuetzle, general manager of The Castaway, for a certain date for a private Holiday party. You'll find excellent facilities here, as well as suitable menus for any festive occasion.

Almost the entire cast of "Grease," the hit Broadway musical which started the revival of the "nifty 50's," ringsided at Finocchio's for two nights in a row before leaving town. It gave them something to talk about when they got back home (how often do you get to see a great female impersonator show?). Attention, sportsmen: Your wild game can be prepared to order by the chefs at Oliver's in South San Francisco. Fish, fowl, or even deer (in season) will be prepared for a large feast. Good idea to contact owner Fred Martinelli for further information.

Some say that good restaurant help is hard to find. But this doesn't hold true at the Gold Platter, where owner George Green has found a most capable assistant — his daughter, Miriam. When not charming patrons at her hostess post, she is giving her father a helping hand in another restaurant capacity. Planning a "fish fry" at home? A step in the right direction is Vince Licata's Fish Depot, located just north of his popular Italian and Sea Food restaurant. The family-operated combination is one of the Peninsula's most successful. Did you know that Vince rises early in the a.m. to personally select and purchase fresh produce at the markets for his restaurant patrons? Football star Fred Biletnikoff celebrated an Oakland Raiders victory by hosting a big dinner party in the elegant Wellington Room of Phil Lehr's Steakery, in downtown San Francisco.

Edison Library Needs Volunteers

Thomas Edison Elementary School, 1255 Southgate Ave., Daly City, is asking for volunteer help from the community to staff the school library.

Edison Library

Shown working at the Edison School Library are Mary O'Rourke, librarian, Mary Hart, chairwoman of the volunteers and Dee Nelson, volunteer. The students are Scott McDonald and Lisa Colois.

The school has an extensive film collection which was a gift from Bell and Howell and several hundred film strips which the children may check out together with viewers. (Hours are flexible and volunteers work in pairs.)

To date volunteers include Mary Hart, chairwoman, Alice Sankey, Mary Bagatelos, Fe Pagaduan, Ruth McHale, Marilyn Roemer, Dora Scardino, Barbara Hansen, Caroline Futtrell and Dee Nelson. Persons interested in volunteering to work in the library are asked to call the school for further information.

SSF City Hall Wing Delayed

Inflation has threatened the dream of a wing for South San Francisco's landmark city hall.

In a special meeting Thursday night, the City Council declined to award a low bid of $542,000 for the complete job. The project had been estimated at $489,000. Even the estimate had been raised as a result of all bids being disregarded on Sept. 16. At that meeting, the low bid, by Harrod and Williams Co., of Sunnyvale, came to $624,882. Harrod and Williams was low bidder again Thursday.

However, rather than throw out the bids again, the City Council Thursday asked for a complete report on the city's financial condition. City Manager Ed Alario reported that the books on the last fiscal year had not yet been closed. He promised the final figures, as well as a refining of budget estimates, within 14 to 21 days.

The new proposed wing would house the City's Council chambers. The former chambers already have been divided into a suite of offices, as part of a current remodeling job on City Hall.

The current project — which also includes extensive remodeling of the lobby — is designed to lead into the addition of the wing. The new wing would contain larger and more modern council chambers, as well as other needed facilities which would enable the city to carry out the functions of running a city of 50,000. The current building was erected in 1920 for a city of 4000 persons.

Meanwhile, the City Council has been meeting in temporary quarters in the basement of the Orange Avenue Library.

Among alternatives being considered by city staff are deleting plans for reinforcing the tower and roof connections on the present structure, and putting in a side exit door and stairway. These projects would be done at a later date by city forces, it was explained.

Another alternative, which the staff wishes to avoid, would be to eliminate a plan to include a basement area. This area could be included, at time of construction, at a very low cost per foot. However, deleting it, as well as the other alternates, could bring the price down to the $483,000 bid by the Hodgson Construction Co. of Redwood City.

Cast Change For Rossini Opera Lead

Nassrin Azarmi, soprano, will sing the role of Florinda in Rossini's "La Cenerentola," which opens at the San Francisco Opera on Oct. 16. Other performances are Oct. 22, 26 (matinee), and Nov. 1 and 3 (matinee). Shigemi Matsumoto, who was originally announced for the part, was released from her engagement due to serious illness of a close relative.

As a permanent member of the Deutsche Oper am Rhein since 1969-70, Miss Azarmi has appeared in the Jean Pierre Ponnelle productions of "La Cenerentola," and "L'Italiana in Algeri," as well as such works as "The Merry Widow," and "Don Giovanni." She has also performed in Vienna, Linz (Austria), Teheran, and at the 1969 Salzburg Festival.

Miss Azarmi is a native of Brojerd, Iran, and studied at the Teheran Conservatory prior to receiving a two-year scholarship at the Music Academy in Vienna, where she won a first prize.

Up The Shannon River To George Brent's Place

That was in 1965. Since then, he's made nine travel films having learned the rudiments of editing and handling the camera by doing specials for Bill Burdud, outdoor adventure filmmaker.

On Oct. 18 at San Mateo High School auditorium at 8:15 p.m., Paramount Theatre in Oakland, Oct. 19 at 8:15 p.m.; Masonic Auditorium, Oct. 20 at 2:30 p.m. and Marin Vets' Memorial Theatre, San Rafael City Center, Oct. 21 at 8:15 p.m., Borden will return to the microphone for Explorama as narrator of his tenth film, "Ireland" will explore the "human aspect" of the country and its people, their humor and family life.

The Irish Tourist Bureau in San Francisco says there has been no decline in travel despite the trouble there. The Bord Failte wanted desperately to show the happy side of the country and gave me a lot of help. They provided me with a car and living accommodations. Air Lingus gave me transportation and arranged my cruise up the Shannon River. That amounts to about $1,000 in freebies.

"I structure a film pretty carefully before I go so I don't waste time or money. Other films on Ireland show the abbeys and churches. I avoid the pictorial and concentrate on the people in all my films.

"One day we pulled into a mooring called Shannon Bridge, so small that the pub was inside the grocery store. You can get beer and brocoli in one stop.

"I got to chatting with the owner who seemed interested that I was from California. He pointed to a photograph on the wall and asked me if I knew his dear friend in Hollywood. It was George Brent who was born in the same Irish hamlet.

scenes there and everyone in town and surrounding villages showed up. It was a big event for them.

"I spent a lot of time searching for the village used by David Lean in 'Ryan's Daughter' only to find it hadn't really existed. It was built as a film set and was left as a tourist attraction for the residents to make some money. But they didn't know how to promote or maintain it and had the whole place bulldozed over.

"When I first started making travel films I was one of the youngest in the field. I began with Mexico because it was so close and I was familiar with the country from previous travels there. Now I'm 39 and have just retired that film. Doug Jones, at 24, is the youngest now.

"It's easier to tell people I do open heart surgery than say I'm a film lecturer. People don't know what that means."

THE PERFECT HOST

Christian Brothers Napa Rose, 5th

Rose table wines have a reputation for being adaptable to practically any type food. You may wish to consider the Silver Salmon or the Whole Fryers that are featured this week. Christian Brothers Napa Rose (Rose) would be a perfect host to either of these delicious meats. This wine is a brilliant rose-pink in color. It is a medium dry wine with a trace of natural sweetness. The delicate qualities of this fine wine are best appreciated when it has been refrigerated for about three hours before serving. A value at $2.15 a fifth.

Skyline To Stage Cabaret

The Broadway hit musical Cabaret, being presented by the Skyline College drama and music departments, will begin its first of six performances Oct. 24 in the college's studio theater.

All tickets are $1 for the 8 p.m. performances. For those that desire reserved seats they may call the college at 355-7000, extension 234.

Since Cabaret is a musical taking place in a night club, the drama department will present the play in the studio theatre which has a limited seating capacity of approximately 100 persons. The audience will be seated at tables around the stage.

"It does give you the Cabaret atmosphere, more so than the main theater," Cabaret director and Skyline drama instructor Al Melodia noted.

This is the fourth musical the college has presented. Melodia explained why this particular musical was chosen. "We choose it because of its notoriety, entertainment value, and because it makes a very definitive statement."

The director said, "Cabaret is an entertaining way of showing the Nazis' rise to power in Germany."

The 25 students from the music and drama departments who are involved in this production have been rehearsing since the second week of school. "Rehearsals are going very well," Melodia remarked.

Pacifican Bob Welch will play the major roll of Ernst; Cliff is portrayed by John Mathews of San Francisco; Frauline Schneider by Paula Ercoli of Daly City; South San Franciscan Leanne Tintori and Karen Curlee will play Frauline Cost and Sally respectively, and the master of ceremonies is Phran Gauci of Millbrae.

YMCA Plans 'Family Focus' Courses

Peninsula YMCA has announced that for the second year it will be conducting its program on Family Communication Dynamics. Tomorrow and Oct. 22 six-week "Family Focus" courses will begin.

Now, in a time of crises and untold pressures on the family as a unit and on each family member as an individual, it becomes essential that parents improve their skills and knowledge.

Many programs in communication and personal growth already exist in the Bay Area. Unfortunately most are not designed for the special concerns of parents.

YMCA Family Focus is the first program, offered here locally, which is specifically designed for parents, is relatively inexpensive, and offers effective small group instruction and well prepared written materials.

The course, comprised of six weekly sessions, uses Transactional Analysis, as described in "I'm OK-You're OK" and "Born to Win", as a tool for understanding family communication. Each session deals in a practical, understandable fashion with bridging gaps, family communication, discipline, growth, and improvement of the quality of family life. A healthy supportive attitude is maintained throughout.

making the Family Focus courses positive experiences for all involved.

Each Family Focus course meets weekly, at the Peninsula YMCA, in the evening from 7-10 p.m. for six consecutive weeks. Multimedia instruction, discussion, participation and texts are well integrated to maximize interest, enjoyment and learning. The complete cost for individuals is $25 and $35 for couples (YMCA members get a $5 fee reduction). This compares with costs often double these amounts or more for comparable courses.

For details and sign-ups visit Peninsula YMCA, 240 North El Camino Real, San Mateo, or phone 342-5228 and speak with YMCA staff.

The YMCA has been in the "people business" for a long time.

BY ORDER OF THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS
COUNTY OF SAN MATEO
A. R. MIDDALGH, Purchasing Agent
Published in The Post, San Mateo, California 94402
Wednesday, October 16, 23, 1974 (P.18)

For perhaps the first time in the district's checkered 37-year history there's a bright, glaring issue, bringing a wide range of strong reaction from all over the county.

The question is: Should the harbor district build a 1,050-berth small boat marina and recreation-oriented shore facilities at Pillar Point, at a cost variously estimated at $11 million to $16 million?

Three of the candidates, including the two appointed incumbents, say yes. One challenger says no.

The County Board of Supervisors in August voted down a November ballot measure that would have left it to the voters to decide whether the harbor district should be dissolved. The supervisor vote was the culmination of months of hearings and argument centering on the cost of the huge project and its countywide cost to taxpayers.

The two incumbents happen to be the newest on the board. Charles J. Boerio, 39, 760 N. Mayfair Ave., Daly City, is an accountant and was appointed to the board Dec. 28, 1973, replacing H. Wallace Cooper, Jr., who had resigned. Marin C. Matosich, 64, 1260 El Camino Real, Millbrae, also is an accountant and was appointed May 1, 1974, replacing the resigned Alf Carstens.

Ralsey Jack Edwards, 67, 1429 Palm Drive, Burlingame, a retired marine surveyor, was a harbor commissioner from 1955 to 1969 and Pillar Point harbormaster for a time after that. He favors harbor development.

Donald P. Fuller, 38, 263 El Granada Blvd., El Granada, is a licensed ship's captain and Bay ship's pilot who opposes the present Pillar Point Harbor plan.

Two other candidates also filed papers but dropped out last month. John J. Geary of Pacifica withdrew for personal reasons and Robert Caughlan of San Mateo was declared ineligible after a court hearing because of late filing.

The storm that has broken over the harbor district has brought on deannexation moves by six cities and four special districts in the county, led by the city of San Bruno, which has complained bitterly about the harbor district's countywide tax rate of over three cents per $100 assessed valuation.

But district officials claim the tax rate could be eliminated when the harbor becomes a revenue producer after its development. The harbor is San Mateo County's major ocean port and is home to some 465 commercial fishing boats.

Some revisions in the development plan are likely, since a claim for exemption from its rules has been turned down by the new state Coastal Zone Conservation Commission and it is felt much of the plan would be contrary to CZCC guidelines.

But the district must carry on, backers say. Boerio said the project would save the area from non-recreational development and provide hundreds of jobs. He claimed also Pillar Point would be one of the West Coast's most modern harbors, "providing not only facilities for commercial and pleasure boats but also picnic grounds, campsites and much-needed publicly-owned open space."

Matosich called the harbor development "a very worthy asset to the county." He said also that the state boating plan shows "Pillar Point Harbor is one of the most valuable commercial-recreational developments to become a reality in the foreseeable future."

Edwards claimed that all 68 coast and inland boat harbors in California are paying their way and that Pillar Point's development "is ten years behind." Most coast harbors have been constructed since 1960, when Pillar Point was funded for development, Edwards said.

Playa del Rey, in Southern California, was funded the same day and now is worth $245 million. "Pillar Point is the last one in the state to get off the ground - if it ever gets off the ground," Edwards went on.

Fuller sees Pillar Point Harbor differently, objecting to the cost, environmental damage and dangers to recreational boaters.

He called himself a "concerned conservationist" rather than an "environmentalist," and said he favored reducing development to a small boat storage area and cutting out the planned fill and pier construction.

Pillar Point also is a "summer harbor," he said, and unsuitable for anything else on this part of the ocean. The safety hazard is in the long reef running south from Pillar Point, well-known to commercial boatmen but "There's no educational program" for amateurs, Fuller said.

The Pillar Point plan, on which over $600,000 already has been spent, has been supported by the city of Half Moon Bay and boating, fishing, commercial and labor groups in the county.

Opposition has been from environmentalists. El Granada groups who object to a conveyor belt carrying fill dirt through their neighborhoods to the harbor, the cities and districts who want out and some taxpayer groups.

Chrysanthemum Show Scheduled at Oakland

By IVA NEWMAN

Mother Nature is ready to explode her traditional autumnal "bomb" in Oakland's Lakeside Garden Center. The City's annual Chrysanthemum Show, October 13, is the time when America's most spectacular horticultural display officially bursts upon the public's notice.

Four thousand Chrysanthemum plants of 300 varieties, with literally hundreds of thousands of blooms, will produce a riot of fall colors remaining at their peak until the heavy winter rains decimate the plantings. This is usually a month to six weeks after the official opening day.

As a bonus, the adjacent dahlia garden, which has been in superabundant bloom since early August, should continue in over-lapping splendor for the first period of the chrysanthemum show.

Park Supervisor Phil Denoncourt, of the Oakland Office of Parks and Recreation staff, said that "It seems that our calculations have been correct. The long stretches of cool, overcast weather this year have slowed the plants' progress, but our recent warm spell seems to insure that we'll have full color on Chrysanthemum Day."

The thousands of visitors who throng the garden on opening day will be forerunners of an estimated two to three hundred thousand people who will eventually have enjoyed the free display. Hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on weekdays and 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. on weekends through October. After that the closing hour is 4 o'clock every day.

Three-quarters of the chrysanthemums on display are in the gracefully but precisely designed beds of ground plantings. The other thousand are in the "cascaded" plants that are placed on racks to form a long wall of living color as a backdrop to the show.

Chrysanthemum Specialists

Working under Denoncourt and Park Foreman Fred Jones are chrysanthemum specialists Bill Witmer (in charge of ground plants) and Bob Castro, who grows and tends the cascades. They are all under the supervision of Chuck Weatherston, park services manager for the Office of Parks and Recreation. Most of the time during the six weeks or more of the show one or two of these men will be on hand to answer questions on the growing of these beautiful fall flowers.

The efforts of these men produce a display each year that is considered the largest and finest of its kind in the nation.

"It's no wonder that the chrysanthemum is called 'The Queen of Autumn,'" said Denoncourt. "It has a wide range of colors, it's hardy in the garden and due to its fine keeping ability as a cut flower, ideal for decorations and arrangements. It also fills a gap in the annual cycle of blooms that might otherwise leave us with little more than greens and some berries for several weeks."

Introduced into this country from the Orient nearly two centuries ago, the chrysanthemum is especially effective in artistic arrangements, both for homes and for public events. From the basic "daisy" type which originally brought to this country hybridizers have developed the many varieties now listed in the various chrysanthemum catalogs.

Interest in the chrysanthemum has grown in Oakland since the Parks and Recreation Department began some years back to import new varieties from other sections of the Pacific Coast and from such far-away places as Texas.

Testing of plants for adaptability to Bay Area growing conditions is continually in process in the Garden Center with special attention to such factors as relative amounts of sun and shade required. This information is always readily available to the home gardener free of charge.

Jones noted that the Garden Center display cannot be considered typical of chrysanthemum gardens in this area. "We aim for a large show in a concentrated period of time," he said, "whereas there are many varieties that can give bloom over a much more extended period."

The Garden Center is in the heart of Lakeside Park, across the main roadway from the bandstand and Children's Fairland. It is just off the shore of Lake Merritt.

Go Early

We usually visit this nationally acclaimed chrysanthemum show one or two days before the day set for the official opening. The blooms are substantially the same as they are on opening day and one can get a better look plus a place close by to park when there are not so many people. We go via the San Mateo Bridge and the Nimitz Freeway to the Oak Street off-ramp, and stay on Oak until we reach the lake when we turn left and follow the lake around until we reach the main drive. The chrysanthemum garden is just a couple of hundred feet beyond the Garden Center building.

Most, if not all, the plants that make up the Oakland Chrysanthemum show were grown from cuttings started last spring from the lush spring growth from clumps wintered over. These are rooted in pure sand. When the roots have formed the cuttings are moved to pots, in a potting mixture that will encourage good root growth. Each grower has his own special potting mix but we have found that it boils down to a mix consisting of equal parts light loamy soil, coarse sand, leafmold or compost and pulverized sheep or steer manure. The planted pots are protected from the direct rays of the sun with laths or netting.

At the end of 10 days or two weeks the plants are usually well enough developed to be moved into a well prepared soil in the garden. In both our gardens in this area we have had excellent success in moving the young rooted cuttings directly into the garden where they are to grow and flower. We have at times built a make-shift lath cover over the plants to protect them from too much heat until they can get established. Cheesecloth tacked on stakes does a good job. After about three weeks the growing tips are pinched out of each plant to encourage branching.

Usually there are free cultural folders at the Oakland show. Look for these as they have excellent tips for growing Autumn's Queen of Flowers.
